GALERIE BERNET BERTRAM is pleased to present you a Group exhibition with works by Rolf Behm, Jürgen Holtz, Mathias Wild and the Chinese artist Li Zhi. With it we would like to give you an opportunity to get to know current positions of abstract fine art of artists of our gallery.

The suitcase as work of fine art - Rolf Behm

We are showing works by Rolf Behm in mixed media and collage from his series Malergepäck (Painter's Luggage), which he started in 2014. The suitcase as the epitome of travelling determine canvas or paper. Behm was inspired to do this by the photographs of the detectors at airports that illuminate the on-board luggage. "Cold" and "hot" zones and everyday utensils become visible on the monitors: a flask, a bottle, a mousetrap and other travel companions that Behm transforms into a multi-layered abstract pictorial space. Master of mixed media, Behm paints with colours that transport the light and sets colour signals. He intensifies the oscillation of the pictorial elements by inserting coloured papers in the tradition of collage. Each suitcase of the artist is a portrait with its own statement and invites us to a journey of discovery with its special voice: sometimes tender and soft (Suitcase bleu), then in a erotic way (Flacon rouge).

Scripture figures and watercolours by Jürgen Holtz

The hieroglyphic looking characters by Jürgen Holtz, executed with watercolours or ink, resemble pictorial carpets. An invented language in ideograms that have always fascinated the artist. In their variety, these inventions of ideograms resemble mysterious letters, addressed to unknowns (Alphabet). The forms are either strictly ordered or, as in the portrait of the cock Herzog Ohnefurcht, merge into arabesques. They are signs, messages, "letters from nobody to nobody", as Jürgen Holtz says. And also the original echo of theatre and artistic creation (Ritual), of play and dance. This is also the case in the watercolours of 2014 Tanz 2 and Tanz 3. The works are shown as originals as well as some as Prints in a limited edition.

Close to autonomous painting - Mathias Wild

Mathias Wild, who died in 2017, saw himself as a picture researcher and explorer. For him, pictures were created not only from what he saw, but also from thoughts. Almost nomadically, Wild followed tracks, laid them down, took picturesque detours, played with lucidities, free zones, which he called "celestial bodies". Wild turned the whole picture into a cartography and a field of action. Wild distanced the colours from each other, sent them into a chromatic discourse. Also on view are gouaches which the artist understood as coloured drawings in which he placed motifs on informal grounds in two to three quasi-filmic cuts. In his relief-like works with oil on corrugated cardboard, which he pursued since 2013, Wild dealt with everyday situations (Picnic). He used boxes, which he opened, trimmed and painted. Wild also acted spontaneously and autonomously in a technique in which printing, painting and drawing overlap in rapid temporal succession, the monotype, represented in the exhibition by a sheet with a shaded wanderer.

Intuition, inspiration, concentration - Li Zhi

Li Zhi's abstract painting expresses attitudes of Zen philosophy. The pictures are like invitations to meditation (Suche nach Frieden), landscapes in which people emerges, pass by, disappear. These motifs run unobtrusively through the viewer's life and at the same time announce a relaxed and tense expectation of the right, present moment in order to set off for new, unknown shores. In his acrylic paintings Li Zhi prefers the colours blue, brown, red, a warm grey. Feeling, thinking and spiritual sensations find their way into a harmoniously floating whole, a continuum of space and time.
